Re: Glenbrook Stories - March 20, 2017

MEMO

Stars from the Glenbrook variety shows share stories from the stage

Everyone knows the Glenbrook V-shows; but do they know the stories behind the acts?

At our meeting on March 20, one performer from GBN and one performer from GBS will tell us the journey of a student idea and how it makes it onto the famous Glenbrook V-show stage.

From opposite ends of the performance spectrum, Glenbrook North senior Sarah Chang made her debut performance in "Legacy" reciting original poetry and Glenbrook South senior Antonio Duca, a veteran performer, graced the "Synchronicity" stage in a singing number. Sarah's story is about pushing herself out of her comfort zone to talk publicly about an issue she cares greatly about: mental health. For Antonio, being onstage is second nature, as he has been featured in the network T.V. show "Empire," and performs regularly in local music venues and is hired for private events.

We will meet these students, see video footage of their performances, and engage in a "question and answer" session.
